(These lines were written upon seeing the effigy of the Dorman panther in the Natural History Museum of Albright College, Myerstown, Lebanon County, on November 6, 1912.) At twilight when the shadows flit, Within the ancient museum I sit, Gazing through the dust-encrusted glass. (While hosts of savage memories pass) At your effigy, ludicrously stuffed. The fulvous color faded, the paws all puffed, And bullet-holes in jowl and side Tell where your life blood ebbed like some red tide; A streak of light--the last of day-- Gleams through a window on your muzzle gray, And lights your glassy eyes with garnet fire. You almost stir those orbs in fretful ire Which gape into the sunset s dying flame Towards the wild mountains whence you came; Revives old images which dormant lie-- Outside the wind is raising to...
