The furniture that matters consists of an armchair, with a cushion, a chair, a small table, a stand or cabinet with some little ornaments on it, a writing table or secretary, and a fireplace with fire down left. The door opening on the hall, is at the back, centre.] [When the curtain rises, the room is empty. Then the hall-door off is heard to open and shut. Frances has let herself in. She enters the room. She is in her walking clothes, hat and furs.] Frances. He has not come. (She rings and takes off her things. Enter Sarah). Frances. No one called while I was out, Sarah? Sarah. No, ma am. Frances. I ll have tea. Bring two cups. Sarah. Yes, ma am. France. Sarah, I thought the master might come here this evening. I suppose he won t come now, as he has not come till now.
